

Brentwood Academy Acting Course Description

The Acting class is an elective geared toward the student who is serious about the study and process of acting. The class includes, but is not limited to, learning stage and acting terms, using the body and voice on stage, studying different influential acting teachers, their techniques, and how to apply them. With these skills, students will learn how to apply the classwork to our own stage. This is an all-encompassing acting class that is not only a valuable educational class for students wanting to perform on stage in any type of show, but can also be applied to students' lives off the stage as well. This class will help students discover what kind of character they are and how to use their talents in their everyday lives.
